The ingenious European-style alternative

Slats are a popular alternative to what we're used to. The slat suspension was invented in Switzerland over 50 years ago and accounts for over 70% of bed sales in Europe. Yet, it is relatively new to the U.S. Forget undifferentiated box springs. Slat bases provide independent support, with no sag or roll together. Our slat systems work in perfect tandem with our range of mattresses and can be tuned to match each individual's body contour and ease pressure points. In addition, the slat settings can be modified to accommodate changing body needs or comfort preferences over time.

Adjustable Slat Suspension

Slat Suspension ~ Our slat suspension consists of two parallel rows of responsive steam-cambered beech wood slats mounted into thermo-plastic shocks. The slats are extremely active, providing just the right amount of give and support for the body's critical pressure areas. It reduces pressure on neck and shoulders, waist, hips and knees, the primary problem areas for chronic pain and discomfort.

Motorized Adjustable Slat Frame

Our seven zone height and hardness adjustable slat frame is handcrafted in Germany. The support zones of the frame conform exactly to the body's profile, supporting it in multiple positions. There is a firmness adjustment option for the lower back, hip, and knee, and an ergonomic head support while in the sitting position. You can choose between a corded and a wireless handset. Our motors are state of art Euro DC direct drive motors that are quiet, powerful and durable.
