The ultimate in intense, responsive support

If you prefer a more responsive feel than the Paris provides, the Vienna might be the right choice for you.

The Vienna begins with a single layer of over 1,300 tightly compressed, individually encased base coils for exceptional, independent total body support. Made in Germany, these high carbon steel coils are center glued and nested in a honey combed pattern. This allows for a maximum number of coils with minimal space between the coils, enabling each spring to adjust independently to perfectly support your body in any sleeping position.

Increased responsiveness in the Vienna is created through an added layer of interactive mini coils on top of the base coil, cushioned with a top layer of natural latex foam. This innovative, interactive coil design features alternating rows of higher and lower coils with different diameters and gauges. This creates a highly flexible yet supportive surface that yields to the body's curves, reducing pressure against the shoulders and hips, and promotes proper ergonomic alignment while at the same time offering extra surface comfort.

- ~ No turning or flipping needed
- ~ No sag or roll-together
